KEMP'S MEMORIAL (Kemp-Swoboda-Parrella)—Is an Informal Decorative with an exceptionally high center, a blended autumn gold color with soft bluish undertones. It grows normally 5-6 feet tall in well spreading bushes, holding the immense blooms in an ideal three-quarter-facing position on canelike stems high above the deep-green leathery foliage.

Three years ago, before Daddy Kemp of Little Silver, N. J., died, he gave what he considered "the best seedling he ever originated" to his life-long friends, Mr. and Mrs. A. Swoboda of Ridgefield Park, N. J. with the request "to grow it in his memory."

The Swobodas who placed many of Daddy Kemp's introductions in the winner classes on the show tables, grew this wonderful dahlia for three successive seasons and everybody who saw it in their garden said: "There is nothing like it."

The stock was never propagated, but always grown from clump divisions under natural conditions, without forcing and nobody else has any of it.

Field grown blooms are normally 12 inches in diameter and 7 to 8 inches deep; under cultivation and using fertilizers sparingly, the bushes will produce blooms 16 inches in diameter and 10 inches deep.

Kemp's Memorial is a prolific rootmaker, but has to be planted early for early blooms. Specific growing instructions for best results will be given with every order.

There has never been anything like this magnificent dahlia in the true autumn color class and in order to give it the widest possible introduction in memory of Daddy Kemp we are offering for the first time,

BRIEF SUGGESTIONS TO THE AMATEUR ON HOW TO GROW BETTER DAHLIAS

1. Select easily grown varieties and those giving full satisfaction.
2. Prepare the selected planting spot well and place the supporting stake.
3. Dig a hole next to the stake, about 10 inches in diameter and 7 to 8 inches deep, and place one handful of bonemeal in the hole, or any other recommended fertilizer and mix thoroughly with the soil before planting.
4. Place roots in flat position with the sprout or "eye" facing upwards. Cover lightly with about 2 inches of soil. In doing this be careful not to damage the sprout. As the plant grows, fill around the stem with soil.
5. Do not plant too early. At times, too early planting spoils good roots. I would suggest planting from June 1st on, except in climates where a short growing season is prevalent. In that case use your own judgment.
6. Keep the soil well cultivated throughout the season, and prevent weeds from outgrowing the plant.
7. Water plants during hot weather at least once a week. Do not merely sprinkle them, but soak them. This must be done after sundown.
8. Tie the plant to the supportive stake with soft cord, at distance of 12 inches apart. This is done as an added security against destruction by wind and storm. Spray with any reliable parasiticide at least once every two weeks.
9. About August 1st, scatter a handful of bonemeal about 6 inches around the stem and rake it gently into the soil. Other fertilizers may be used if desired. Do not use excessive amounts of fertilizer as injury to the roots will result.
10. About August 15th, the same treatment as above is applied. Disbudding at this time aids in the formation of bigger and better flowers and longer stems. This should insure good results. If any other information is desirable, I will gladly forward you the same.
11. Spraying is advisable when necessary with any good recommended insecticide.

I am grateful to those who have been able to visit my gardens as well as those who have inspected my exhibits at the American Dahlia Society Shows, and many other shows we attend and also our display at the New York Botanical Garden because I feel my dahlias speak best for themselves.

To those who are familiar with my stock, no introduction is necessary and you have my pledge that the same quality will not only continue but improve if such is possible. To those who have not tried my service this is an invitation, an invitation that may prove a real opportunity for you to realize something you may not have been able to obtain elsewhere and no order is too small nor is any contract too large, I am pleased to serve you.

Dear Mr. Parrella:

Was just looking at one of your old catalogues, and think of the time when I was one of your customers. Haven't raised dahlias for some time, and would like to try my luck again. I always received very nice bulbs from you people. Am again interested in getting a copy of your new catalogue if possible.

Dear Mr. Parrella:

Thanks you for the wonderful dahlia plants you sent to my mother at 406 Quincy Street, Bakersfield, California, last spring. Your plants were the nicest we have ever bought. We had bad luck and saved only two of them — but it was due to a heat wave — the plants arrived in excellent condition.

I would like to reserve more plants for this spring.

Sincerely, G. C. I.

HOW TO GROW DAHLIA FROM SEED

There are many ways that dahlia seeds are started, and grown, on account of the different climatic conditions, and the length of the growing season, here in New York City, I have been getting wonderful results as follows: About April 1st, I select an open sunny location in my garden and spade this to a depth of about 8 inches and rake the soil until it is finely broken, and not lumpy, then with a hoe make trenches about 4 inches in depth and about 12 inches apart.

Then place a seed about every 2 inches apart in these trenches and cover with about one half inch of soil, water lightly and cover with about 2 or 3 inches of peat moss, as a protection against a slight frost or cold. About May 1st carefully remove the peat moss and in another week or two you will see the young dahlia plants breaking through the ground, add a little more soil to the trench and around the plants that are showing above ground, so that they will get better and stronger root formation. About June 1st many of these plants will be about 4 or 5 inches above the ground, showing two to three sets of leaves and the stems will be about the thickness of an ordinary match. They are then about the right size for transplanting.

In colder climates and where the growing season is not so long, is to start the seeds in boxes or flats about 20 inches long, 12 inches wide and 4 inches deep. Make 3 or 4 trenches about 2 inches deep and plant the seed about every 2 inches apart in these trenches and cover with about a half inch of soil. These seeds should be planted about 2 months before it is reasonably safe to transplant the young plants out into the open.

The box should be kept in a warm room and near a window that faces a sunny location. About 2 or 3 weeks later, they will be breaking out of the ground and when they are about 3 or 4 inches high, they should be removed from the box and transplanted into 3 inch flower pots, and on warm, sunny days, should be left out into the open to gradually harden, and when you believe that the time is right for their permanent transplanting as described above, then plant them as directed, and they will grow into strong, healthy plants, as good if not better than plants grown from tubers.

Of course if you have a greenhouse or a cold frame facilities, it will simplify matters by starting your seeds about March 15th and using the above last two paragraph principles.
